Individual and organisation membership

The Centre for Crime and Justice Studies at King's College London is an independent charity that informs and educates about all aspects of crime and criminal justice.

Our mission is to promote just and effective responses to crime and related harms by informing and educating through critical analysis, research and public debate.

At a time of tough talk and tough policies where rhetoric too often trumps clear thinking, it is important that there is an organisation that challenges political platitudes.

Help us continue this important work by joining us today.

Five reasons why you should join CCJS

- 1 We are independent. Since 1931 we have provided a forum for critical debate and analysis independent of party-political, commercial or other vested interests.
- 2 We are honest. We strive to base our work on good evidence, presented honestly.
- 3 We are authoritative. We pride ourselves on producing high-quality work of clarity, relevance and rigour, which is accessible to a range of audiences.
- 4 We are influential. Through our work with journalists, parliamentarians and policy makers we have a direct impact on public debates and public policy.
- 5 We are committed to justice. Everything we do is based on a commitment to fair and just responses to crime and related harms, and to challenging disadvantage, discrimination and inequality.
