

FOR SALE-JAIL

THE OLD HOUSE, New Street, Ross-on-Wye, Herefordshire, a medieval house with a picturesque tower is for sale. Known locally as the "Old Jail" it was probably used as a town lock-up about a century ago. It belonged to the Church for some 600 years before being sold in 1906 for less than £100. Comprising nine rooms, with usual offices and all main services, it has a large garage, a long garden well stocked with fruit trees, shrubs and rose bushes; the property is protected by law as a house of outstanding architectural interest and has been the subject of radio and TV programmes. The present owners are Mr. and Mrs. P. de la Cherois Crommelin.
